Memorialisation

"If there ever comes a day when we can't be together, keep me in your heart. I'll stay there forever."

– A.A. Milne

Memorials represent a physical link to the life and memories of those we have loved and lost. They are just as much for the living – to allow you to say goodbye and to remember. Having a physical place and meaningful anchor point to strengthen enduring human connection and care.

Memorialisation of ashes involves burying the container of ashes in the earth and placing a personalised plaque at the position. You can choose to be present when the ashes are placed, and this is called a Witness of Ashes Placement.

Centennial Park offers a range of memorial options within our Park. There are over 30 themed memorial gardens, each with various ways to memorialise your loved one. We can help you to choose a fitting memorial position to honour your loved one's memory – perhaps a favourite rose colour, a place near water or a spot in the sun.

What you do with the ashes of a loved one is a very personal choice. Ashes can be memorialised in our beautiful gardens, kept at home in an urn, split between family members, scattered – or any combination of these options.

You do not need to make a decision straight away. Once the cremation has occurred, you can take your time to decide how you want to honour the life of your loved one, while still having a place to visit and connect with them – at Contemplation Court.

Choose a memorial for your loved one at Centennial Park and receive a beautiful Windsong Chime in memory of them.

Our consultants are here to help you through this process and answer any questions you may have. Make an appointment by calling (08) 8276 6011 or write to us at memorial@centpark.org.au.

Contemplation Court

A temporary ashes memorial area.

Without a physical place to visit, family and friends can often feel lost while mourning the loss of a loved one.

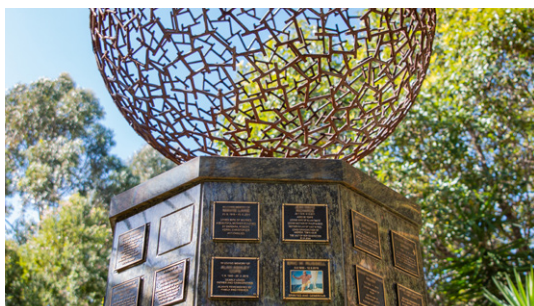

A cremation at Centennial Park includes a temporary ashes memorial at Contemplation Court. This unique facility provides a peaceful and reflective place for people to visit for up to six months after the cremation and until final decisions are made about a permanent memorial.

Centennial Park is proud to be the only cemetery in South Australia and the first in the country to offer this service.

Ultimately, a longer-term memorial provides the final physical anchor point to enable a priceless and enduring connection to life, renewal, and hope.
